

The Palmer and Shorey Family Genealogies

Compiled by Marjorie Palmer Prince

Sabattus, Maine - 1991

A brief outline of the history of the Palmer-Shorey families. I give references for each generation if I have any. Some information I have not had a chance to check.

Starting with Clyde E. Palmer and Bernice E. Shorey working back.

Bought land 1659, Oath of Allegiance Nov. 7, 16771 His name appeared in early records as 'Sinkler.' Sinclair, St. Clair, Sinkler- a corruption of St. Clair and that from St. Clara from the Latin 'cearus' pure, renowned, illustrious. The family is traced back to Rogenwald, Earle of Maerle of Norway, a favorite of King Harold 888 AD. His son Rollo became first Duke of Normandy by marrying 912, the daughter of 'Charles the Simple' of France; received the St. Clair castle in the province of Normandy. The surname St. Clair was adopted by his great grandson who was uncle to William the Conqueror and his three sons were at the battle of Hastings. William his youngest son known as 'the Seemly St. Clair' disagreed with his uncle and formed an alliance with Malcom 3 of Scotland and was defeated at the battle of Tweed and lost his life. He was the ancestor of the American Family of St. Clair.

ILLATHERA HOWLAND dau. of Capt. Benj. and Mary Howland

b. 1751

d. Oct. 18, 1824 10 child.

The origin of the name Illathera, which is still preserved in the Barker family involves a simple story of romantic interest. Capt. Howland was wrecked on Eleuthera, one of the Bahama Islands and did not succeed in reaching home for 3 years. He was given up for lost by all except his wife. Soon after he left home a little girl was born and the mother looked to him to name the child on his return. He called her Illathera for the island which had been his home. A combination of Isle and Eluethera.

He was in Plymouth Colony Mar. 7, 1636/7. Received 10 acres of land on Duxbury side between the lands of Wm. Tubs on North and Experience Mitchell on South; the sea in West and Blew Fish River in East. Peabody--the name is said to have originated in the year 61 during the reign of Nero. Queen Boadicia was located at Icena, Britain. She opposed the Romans in their invasion of the country and with her son Boadie, took refuge in the craggy heights of Wales. Boadie among the Britons signifies a man or great man and Pea signifies a large hill. A mountain from which Boadie came to be called Peabodie or the mountain man and which became the name of the tribe.
